4. Pima County Medical Examiner Report on Pedestrian Fatalities

Tasha Tully presented and shared information related to pedestrian fatalities, representing Pima County Office of the Medical Examiner.

- The office was concerned when in 2022 there were 72 pedestrian deaths, a 28% increase from year prior. 2017 to 2021, ~40 to 50 and in 2022 a jump. So far, 2023 tracking more normal.
- Approximately, Male 70 / Female 30 and most affected age groups include ages 20 to 29 and 60 to 69.
- Time of death most common 6pm to midnight and higher number of deaths on weekends.
- Toxicology screenings have increased on pedestrian deaths. 71% (or 69) had screening performed and of that 77% (or 53) had positive results.
- This data is available on the data dashboard, updated monthly
- There was not a significant finding for special clustering on location data
- Bicyclist Deaths: 13 in 2022, and 7 YTD 2023, average one per month
 - 4 out of 12 had positive toxicology results, note the small sample size
 - More were happening while bicyclists were in a traffic lane

5. Designing Cities

Ben Elias shared a report from the recent national conference in Denver, CO, “Designing Cities 2023” put on by NACTO National Association of City Transportation Officials.

- 96 different member cities across North America (US & Canada right now)
- Topics included but not limited to crises of street safety, climate change, dealing with economic and racial inequality
- Intersection and bikeway design guides
- Better Bike Share Partnership (BBSP): protected infrastructure examples in Denver and how encourage more bike share and bicycling via policy
 - E.g., City passed ordinance that if construction in area that would close bike / pedestrian facilities, something equal or better in quality needed to be maintained throughout construction
- Wide variety of topics: what different cities are doing with materials in their bike infrastructure, “bikeway materials” (Toronto, San Francisco, Albuquerque, and Detroit)
- “Meet the Cities”, share what is happening in your community
- “Walkshop”, mobile tours to directly experience the infrastructure
