4. TPD Training: “TPD Response to Street Takeovers” Presentation by Lieutenant Jesse Chamberlain

Report was given by Lieutenant Jesse Chamberlain. Discussion was held. No action was taken.

Lieutenant Jesse Chamberlain of the Tucson Police Department spoke about how Street Takeovers are an issue on the national level. The street takeovers create fear and intimidation. The participants in these street takeovers block intersections, race, do burnouts, and other activities that put the public and police officers in danger. Many local groups participate in these street takeovers that are anti-police, they post on social media to antagonize the police and flash their firearms. The TPD has tried to combat these illegal events through community outreach and education. The TPD has been building relationships with local drag-racing groups and Musselman. TPD has also ramped up its social media presence and has had open house events at high schools to educate younger individuals about the dangers and consequences of illegal street takeover participation. Lt. Chamberlain stated that since October 2024 there have been 12 felony arrests, 4 GTA vehicles recovered, 4 firearms recovered, 23 vehicles impounded, and 8 follow-up investigations. The main age group that participates in these illegal activities is between 15 to early 20s, but the participants have come in all ages, genders, and races. The models that continue to be stolen at a higher rate remain the Kia and Hyundai models. TPD is hoping they can get more air support and dedicated personnel to concentrate on these illegal takeovers.
